CONSTRUCTION

Daryl Spears retreats from center field. "We lost two yards," exclaimed Daryl! "Get your act together!!!"

Brooklyn White puts the finishing touch on the Senior class banner. It tied for first place.

Haley Mitchell gets ready to construct the wall for the Freshmen class. The wall came in second place!

for INSTRUCTION

Construction, Contruction, Con-struction! That was the most common word used at Montevallo High School during the year. By summer, the new addition with a laboratory and a new Media Center had begun. Construction workers came in with hard hats on, ready to go to work. Bulldozers plowed up half of the parking lot which upset students. The parking problem was alleviated by fencing in a portion of the practice field. Dump trucks unloaded tons of gravel and sand. This resulted in an even bigger mess!

The new library was finished in February. It offered teachers a new workroom where they hold conferences, run copies, and just spend some time to themselves. The new lab featured a new ventilation system, additional storage space, refinished furniture, new showers, and eye washes. Finally, all of the leaks had been stopped!

The Marching Troubadours finished the season with all superior ratings at competition. "I thoroughly enjoyed marching this year," said Freshman Loren Leigh McAnally. "It was a wonderful experience for every new member!"

The 1993-94 Montala was displayed at the National Convention for secondary schools principals. It was selected to represent schools of like size from books from all over the country!.

The construction, "the Freshmen", the addition of new teachers, and the 1994-1995 school year brought about many changes, and left memories Etched In Stone.

Chandler Russ experiments in Physical Science class. His observations helped to earn an 'A' for his team.

MHS

Freshmen Morgan Fuller, Kevin Lucas, and Zac Craig eagerly await Homecoming competition results.

While the school was undergoing extensive construction, all four classes had to construct projects of their own during Homecoming week. There were many different types of competitions. They began with best spirit awards at pep rallies. Homecoming week was an exhaustingly busy time for MHS students. They participated in the penny count, dress-up days, building floats, decorating class banners, walls and overall school spirit. The festive activities wrapped up with the huge pep rally at the stadium where MES and MMS classmates gathered to share the fun. Winners were announced as the SENIORS of 1995 claimed victory for the FOURTH straight year!! It was ETCHED IN STONE that the 1995 Seniors rule!

Varsity cheerleader, Tia Adams, expects that her efforts will help bring the 'Dogs another VICTORY!

After her stunning performance, junior, Sarah Pawlik glows with excitement. The majorettes were superb as usual!

GO

DOGS!

Stacie Morgan displays her spirit by dressing up as Snow White. She won 1st place for the Senior Class!

The Bulldogs BLAST through the banner to destroy the Coosa Central Cougars 30 to 17! This assured another Homecoming victory!!T

Rolling Stones

SPOTLIGHT TriEditor, Elizabeth Hamer, shrieks at the thought of another deadline!

Sophomore, Ellen Pickett, and Freshman, Brandy Bell give it all they have to blast notes from "Excaliber" during the halftime entertainment.

Dana Kemp leads Melissa Crocker, the Bulldog, in victory cheers.

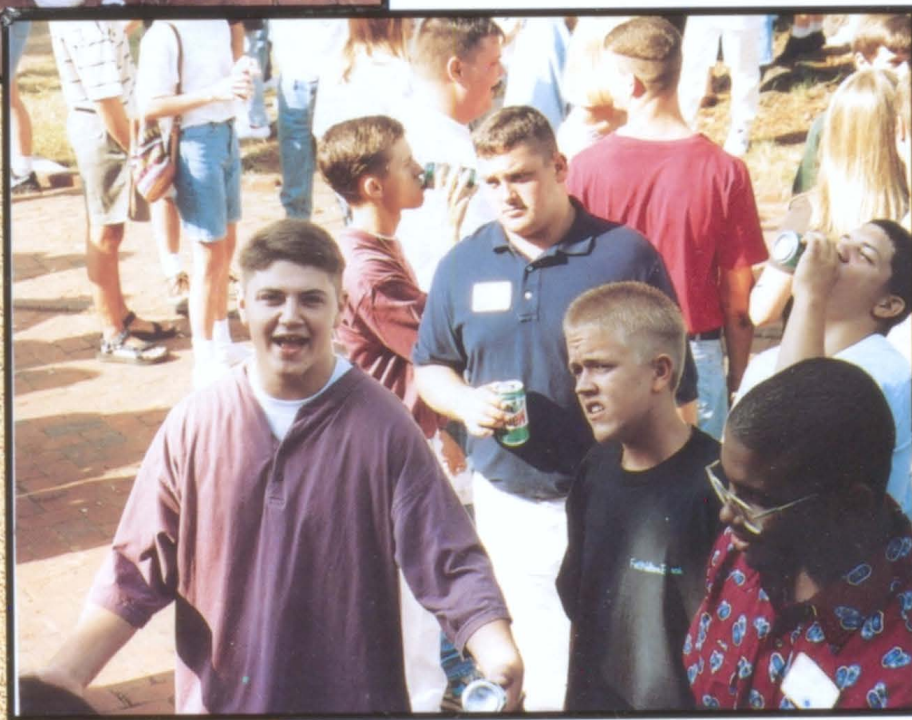

Each individual chiseled their own niche in the role as 'student' at MHS. Each senior climbed the required steps to advance from freshman to sophomore to junior and finally to the brink of adulthood as a SENIOR.

Classmates worked together for common goals such as membership in the same organizations and community service efforts. They were fierce competitors when it came to competitions where class pride was an issue.

Teachers, administrators, and staff members helped keep each stone rolling toward the ultimate goal of GRADUATION!

Freshmen, Loren McAnally and Connie Stobert, pose as "Bonnie and Clyde" on dress-up day. Their efforts resulted in the second place prize.

As my college life begins and my high school years end, my memories never will. Memories of laughter as the senior class pulled off a four year Homecoming victory streak! Memories of late nights studying and weekends with friends. Just as there were many laughs, there were many tears as we had to say good-bye to a well-loved classmate and friend.

As we end our REIGN as seniors and say good-bye to one another, we must remember that there is a new beginning around the corner. We must follow our hearts and believe in ourselves, for no one else can claim what the graduating class of 1995 has accomplished. We BELIEVED !!

Together you walk hand in hand with the Lord for now you've found true peace.

T At home at last where the days shall never pass and joy is yours forever more.

A Safe for you in our Lord's arms, for you were one of His charms.

S Healed from all sickness for the Lord guided you with sweet meekness.

H Assured of the days where we'll never grow old, standing still sheltered from the cold, for you were God's flower in the midst of the garden. He reached down and took you to hold.

Dear Tasha,

In my name do I greet you. As I sit here in the quiet comfort of my Paradise, I thought that I would review the lease that you signed with me 17 years ago on the house that you now live in. On September 7, 1977 you agreed to move into this house and remain there as long as I deemed it necessary that the house is suitable for life.

In checking the terms of your lease I found it necessary to condemn the house that you are living in, because it is not in the same shape that it was in when you moved in.

Several repairs have been made on your house, and the more the house is repaired, the more that needs to be done. In other words, there is a leak in your building and your soul has got to move.

I understand that you have enjoyed living there and perhaps you have gotten comfortable there, but I see some dangers that you don't see if you continue to stay there. If you stay there, I see many more restless nights, I see a body racked with aches and pains and furthermore, I see some weary days and some lonely nights.

Tasha, this letter serves as an official notice of eviction, and upon receiving it, you are to vacate the premises immediately.

Don't worry about where you are going to live after you are evicted, I have instructed John to write in the 14th Chapter of his Gospel that: "In my Father's house are many mansions, if it were not so I would have told you." In other words, I have another house for you, and there is plenty of good room. It is not that you have not paid the rent, the house is just not fit to live in anymore. As your landlord, it is my job to check the property every now and then to see if it is fit to live in.

The new house that you will be living in is not made by hands but eternal in the heavens. In this house, you don't have to worry about the floor squeaking or the roof leaking or the foundation giving way. In other words it is a mansion bright and fair.

I have instructed my angel to deliver this notice to you at Children's Hospital. I have also instructed this same angel not to return without you, regardless of how much you want to stay there, the angel will not return empty-handed.

Tasha, don't feel that I am picking on you for evicting you from your loved ones, for one day they will receive the same notice that you have received. For when I call, they will answer, for they will be somewhere listening for their name.

As you prepare to depart, I want to remind your friends and loved ones to do one thing as they pass by to see you for the last time, and that is to:

Stop by my friends
as you pass by,
Where you are once was I.
Where I am
so you must be,
So prepare yourselves
and follow Me.

Signed,
Your Heavenly Landlord

A Stone's Throw

With three years 'building time' behind them, the Junior Class was ready to make that big step into the senior year. They had cemented many memories with their successful return to challenge the seniors during homecoming. For the first time they were a 'threat'. The juniors etched more memories into stone with a fantastic prom in the spring.

Pieces Of Stone

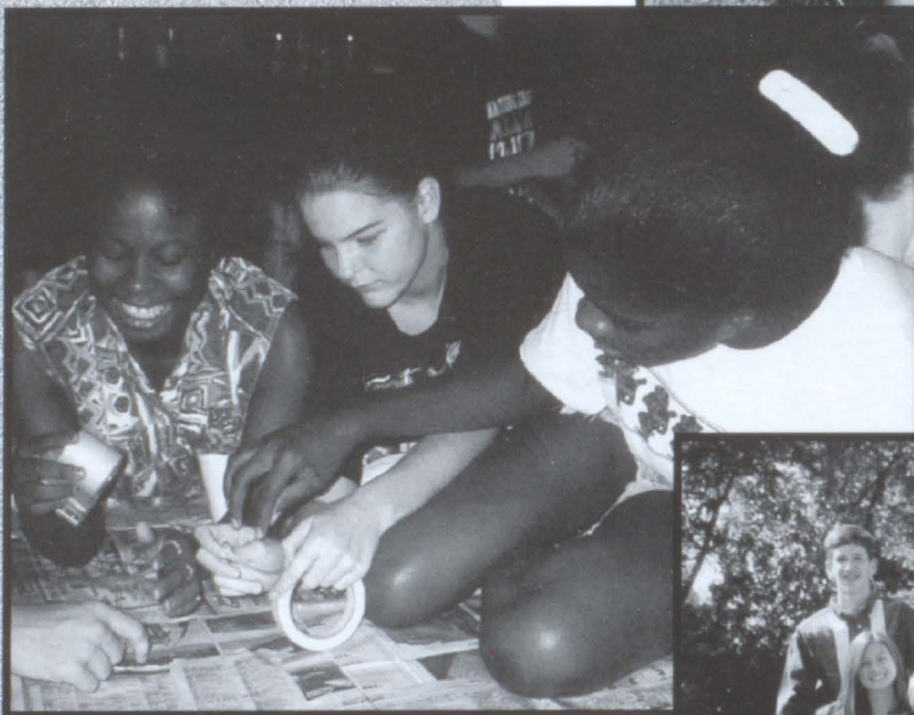

The sophomores worked hard to build on their previous success and carve columns upon which to write more memories. The job was only half complete when the school year ended. Some recalled their most memorable moment. "I made Homecoming Court and participated in the leadout at the dance. I will always remember the cheers from the students in the stands," said Maggie Plott.

The sophomores were determined to grind their way toward success and have their memories ETCHED in STONE.

Building A Foundation

Freshmen began as the pebbles of the school, learning new styles, meeting new people and facing new responsibilities. They tried to get into the swing of their new school life.

Everything had a new twist. There was only one way to go...up! The freshmen tried out a new type of learning called a "school within a school." On top of that, they had to find new classrooms, learn new schedules, and still make time for friends. They got a chance to start over again from scratch. This was the year to make their first impression on everyone and to start with a clean slate. "I think our class has really come a long way. We've learned to work with each other more," said Brent McChesney. It was a year 'etched in stone' for them as they made plans to make their move up in the world.

Heather Brown giggles at the thought of herself in her 'Cheerios bee' costume. Celebrity dress-up day was one in the many fun activities of homecoming week.

Student life is.....

"Time students spend together at school learning from one another."

Keith Collins

"A time to hang out with your friends and get to know other classmates."

Chas Buttell

"The most challenging and stressful part of my life."

Casey Barnes

"The activities at school that involves the intertwining thoughts of the students."

Loren McAnally

In summary, whether senior, junior, sophomore, or freshmen, life had its ups and downs. It may be that some consider life at school to be great because of time spent with friends. On the other hand, others have felt that it was the most stressful part of their life. This, because of filling brains with Algebra equations, confusing English rules, and complicated musical notes in band. All and all life was a most challenging and memorable time of high school. High school will in some way mold what that person will do for the rest of his or her life — be it good or bad.

Montevallo High School students put on a show for the town of Montevallo singing "Hey Baby" as the Marching Troubadours played on.

Maggie Plott and Mandy Howard show their "Bulldog" spirit after the Homecoming pep rally. The team won by a landslide.

HOMECOMING

Senior Rachel Brown was stunned as she is crowned the 1994 Homecoming Queen. Rachel was a beautiful addition to the long list of royalty for good 'ole MHS.

Seniors say, "PUZZLE THE COUGARS!"

It is official, Seniors make it FOUR in a ROW!

IN A ROW!

The 1994 Homecoming Court: Tiffany Chappell, Lori Lyle, Cherie Stobert, Nikkole Conwell, Rachel Brown (Queen), LaKitta Prentice, Renee Byrd, Krislyn Rancher, Rebecca Marsh and Elizabeth Hamilton

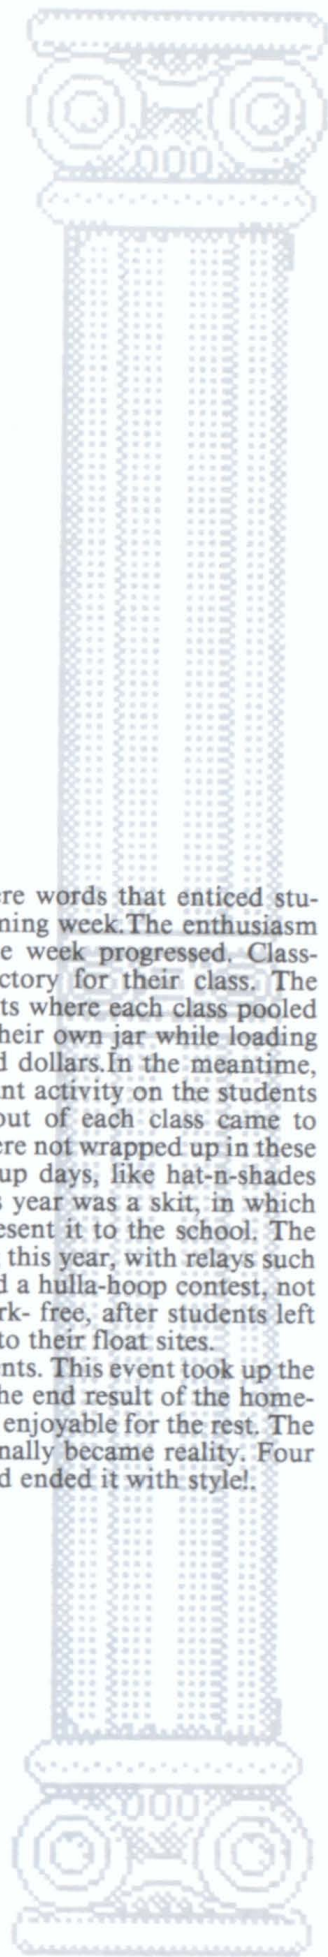

“And the winner is....”. These were words that enticed students to work during Homecoming week. The enthusiasm and anticipation swelled as the week progressed. Classmates worked hard to try to secure victory for their class. The famous penny count was one of the events where each class pooled its resources. Each class put pennies in their own jar while loading the other classes jars with silver coins and dollars. In the meantime, decorating the walls was another important activity on the students minds. To decorate the wall, students out of each class came to school early and stayed late. If students were not wrapped up in these two things, they were working on dress-up days, like hat-n-shades day or celebrity day. Something new this year was a skit, in which each class had to make up a skit and present it to the school. The teachers also participated in homecoming this year, with relays such as passing a balloon under their necks and a hula-hoop contest, not all of homecoming was fun and homework-free, after students left school it was then time for them to head to their float sites.

The float building was one of the main events. This event took up the most time and energy for the students. The end result of the homecoming events were sad for some but very enjoyable for the rest. The words the students had been dreaming finally became reality. Four years in a row, seniors started a streak and ended it with style!

Amanda Bryant and Shanette Lacey celebrate their fourth win in row with great enthusiasm!

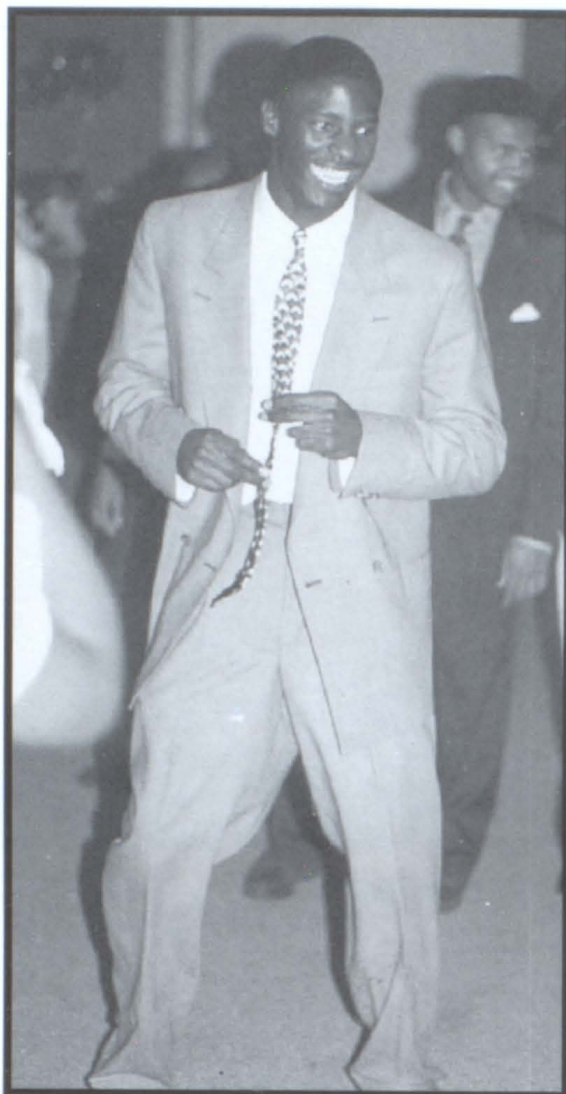

Jeff Harper, Gretchen Seelbach and Courtney Smitherman hurl pies at each other to demonstrate their win of the penny count.

September 23, 1994 was a special night in the town of Montevallo. Homecoming was an exciting night to be with that 'special person' and to dance to all the 'cool' new songs.

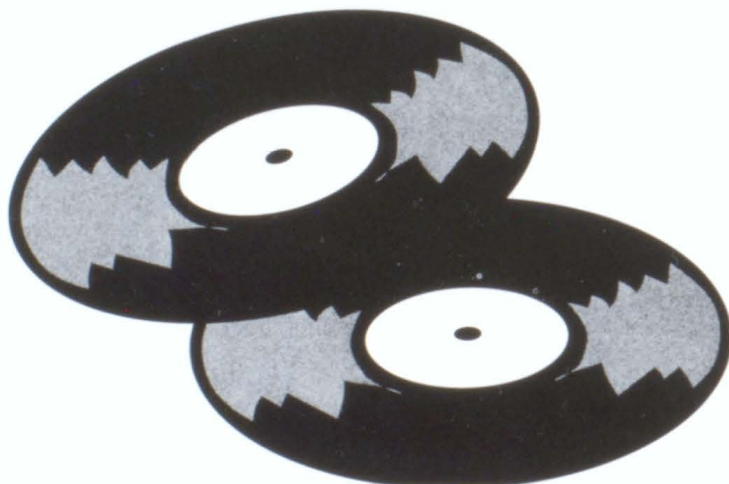

The dance began at ten o'clock and Leadout was scheduled for eleven o'clock. Queen Rachel Brown and her court were escorted by their dates for the event. Senior football players escorted their dates down the runway as well.

Decorations were built and coordinated by MHS students, faculty and staff. The theme of the dance was "I Swear" by Boys to Men. The entire evening was a wonderful finish for a busy and eventful week of celebration. Photographs were taken by Bill Miller Photography.

Thomas Wynn is having a blast at the dance and he has all the right moves!

Eric Thompson and Stephanie Payne enjoy slow dancing at the Homecoming dance. It was a magical evening, with beautiful decorations, sensational music and good friends.

HOMECOMING

Elizabeth Hamilton and her date share a private moment in the midst of the crowd. The decorations and music provided a romantic background for dancing.

Tyeshia Prentice and Marquette Anderson dance the night away. These freshmen made the most of their first homecoming dance.

No doubt about it- Undrae Lilly has many talents. He thrilled the crowd with his dance steps!

the BEAT
goes on...

ONE WAY OUR WAY!

As they lounge on the school steps, seniors get acquainted with freshmen. "It was one of my most memorable times," said senior Adrienne Taylor.

Freshmen enjoy a drink during Big Brother/Big Sister day. The seniors were excited to find out who their Little Brother or Little Sister would be.

During Homecoming dress-up day, freshmen line up for judging. They came in third place.

A Way Of Life

Students may have begun their day by waking up to the sound of an annoying alarm clock. After getting dressed, they may have slipped into Timberlands or Nike's. With JanSport backpacks in hand, many headed for a "Hardee" breakfast or a 'quick stop' at Triple T's....

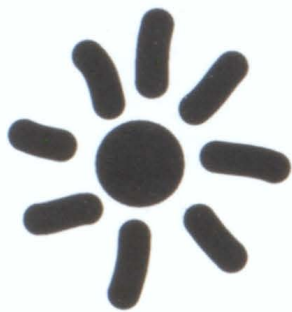

Drug Awareness Week, sponsored by the Peer Helpers was just one of many significant events affecting student lives.

A frequently seen bulldozer works on the foundation of the new library.

Pebble by pebble, the foundation was built, then it was time to add the building blocks and to lay the bricks. Final inspection was held in March.

Another student life activity, College Day, was held during the school day. Kelli Fountain looks at a Troy State yearbook, while Elizabeth Hamilton and Michelle Reach look on.

Student Life

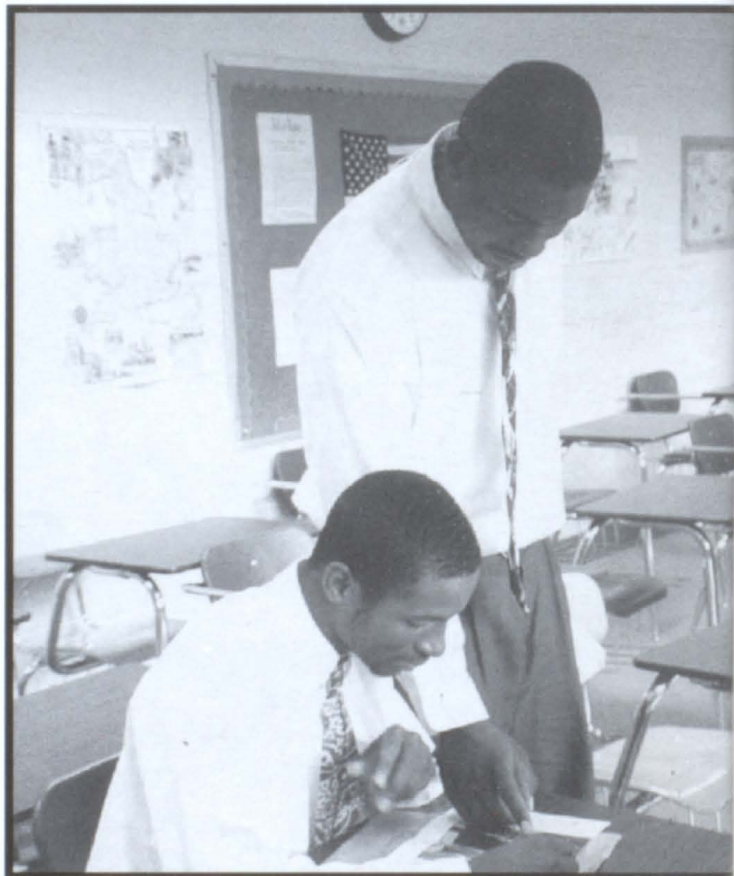

....Once on the school campus, students either hang out in the parking lot, sit in Coach Williams' classroom, or on the front lawn of the High School. During school, students have many chances to take elective classes such as Theater Arts, Yearbook, Band, Spanish, Art and Keyboarding....

Keith Collins and Sha Lacey take the time to look over some material to prepare for their game.

.... Most elective classes are available to allow students to have more of a selection to choose from. After school activities range from practicing a school sport to various jobs students had. Sports include football, track, baseball, softball, volleyball, swimming, golf, tennis, basketball, and cheerleading....

Mandy Scarborough helps measure Amanda Lovejoy for her cap and gown.

Shannette Lacey and Tanya Houser enjoy a break during the annual welcome for new freshmen. April Wynn also enjoyed her day as a 'Big Sister'.

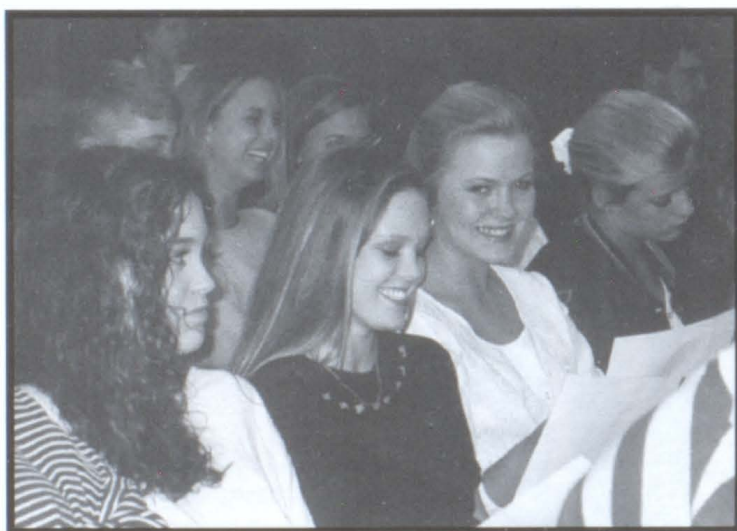

Physical Science students, Connie Stobert, Johnny King, Adam Webb, and Henry Silas watch as Brandy Ramsey adds pennies to a jar of water. The jar held over two hundred cents!

....Some employers included Foodmax, Harco, Smitherman's, Winn-Dixie, Lucky's, Piggly Wiggly, Hardee's, and Subway. Students also had a chance to practice non-sport activities such as drama, chorus, and band. Others stayed "late" to work on the Montala or the Spotlight.

Bobby McNeel "bucks" up for the camera. He got lots of laughs for his "do."

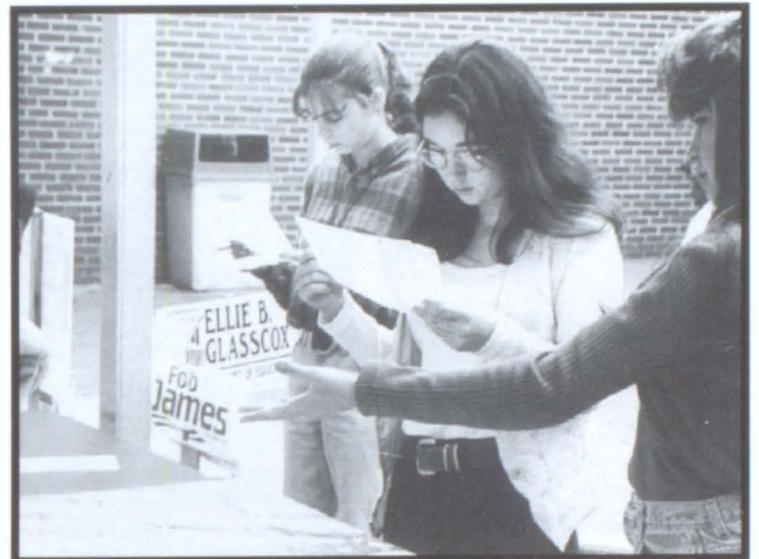

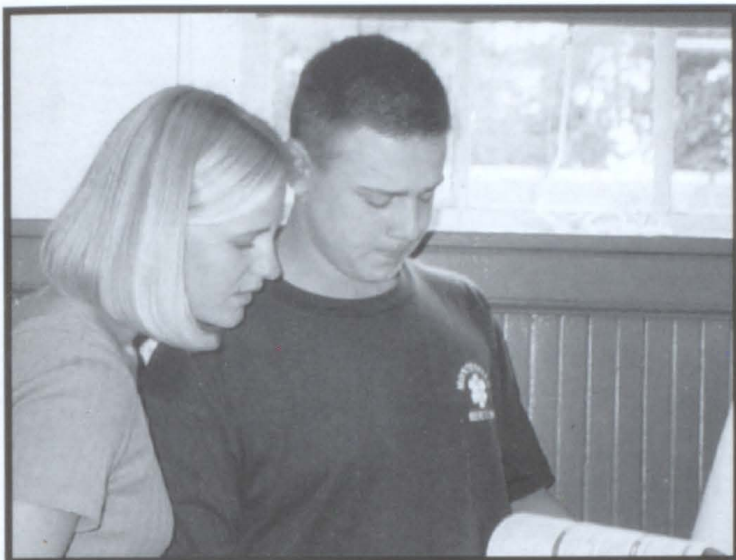

Seniors, Rachel Brown and Erica Burns, are celebrating their victory. Rachel was named homecoming queen at halftime of the game.

....For the students who did not work or practice late, they usually went home and studied hours on top of hours. Yeab Right!! The typical thing would more likely be lounging on the couch with a bag of chips and possibly catching an episode of "E.R." or "Melrose Place"....

Mary Beth Rodgers concentrates on an experiment in Physical Science.

Students watch the Halloween Lab in open-mouthed horror!!

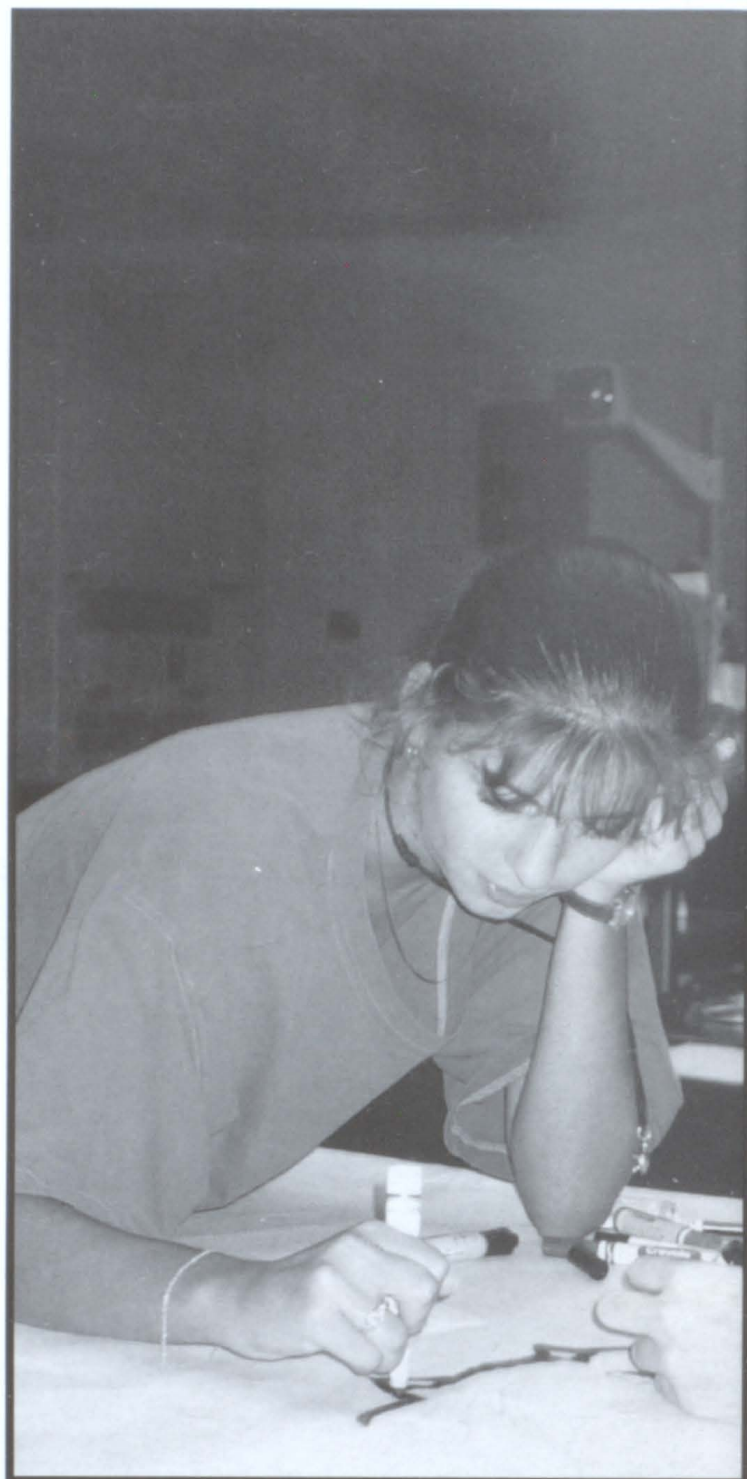

LAYING A FOUNDATION

....Do not forget the phone!! No student goes to bed before they talk on the phone for two hours or more. Before closing their eyes, a student sets the alarm clock for the next morning. Then it is lights out for all MHS students. Finally, another day has been etched in stone in the life of a student at MHS....

Landon Barnett concentrates on cutting wood. He enjoys working with his hands.

Cherie Stobert works on a banner for her class. Her reputation as an artist placed her in demand for many projects.

Amanda Lovejoy bags groceries at Foodmax. She is one of many who work at local food stores.

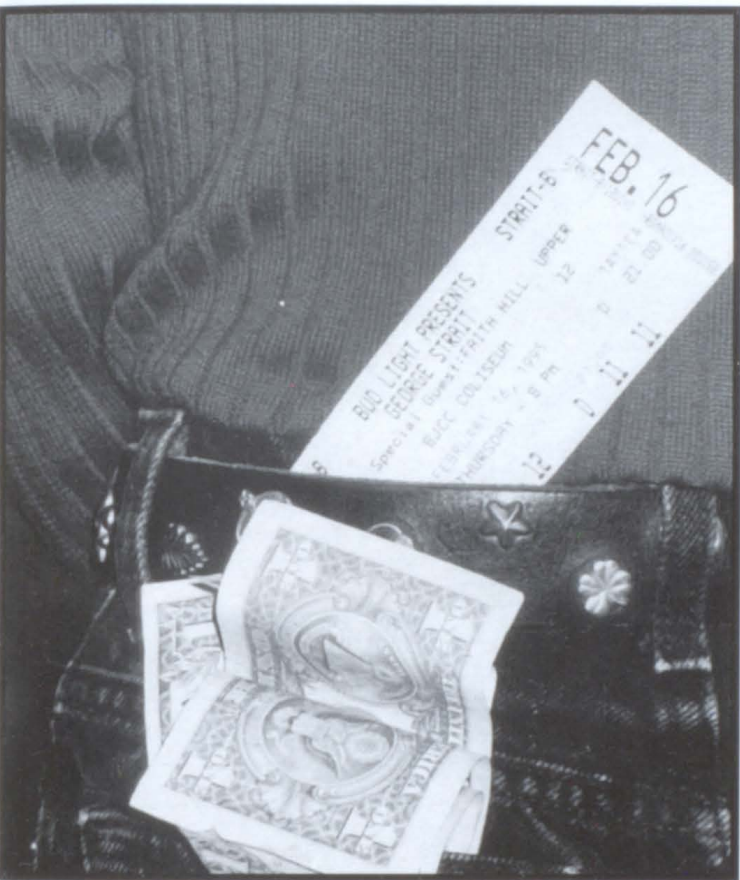

FOR THE FUTURE

....At the end of one hundred and seventy-five days of this same routine it becomes a habit for underclassmen and a mere memory for seniors.

Congratulations to all Seniors and "Good Luck" to all the rest.

Renee Byrd

Juniors display popular styles of rings that were a hit with their class.

MHS students pay big bucks just to go to a concert. Many willingly stood in line for hours to get the 'best seats'.

The new style of earth wear shoes were seen walking the halls of the school.

Timberland boots were also one of the hot items this year at Montevallo High. This was a 'must have' fashion accessory !

Sticks and Stones

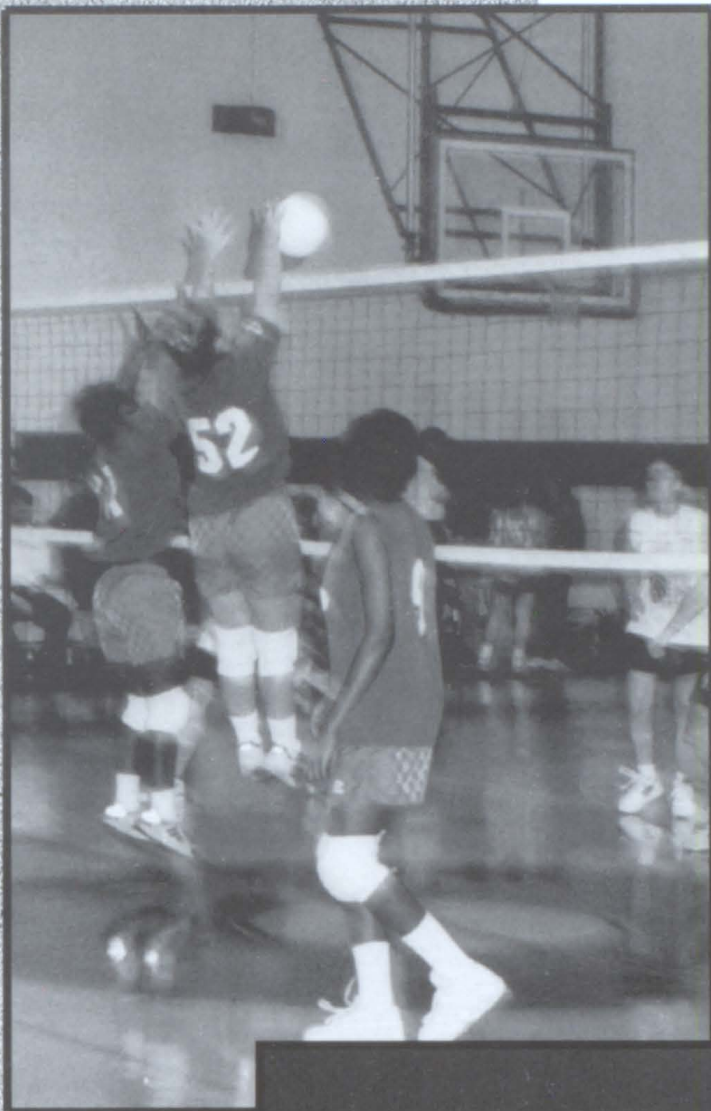

Sophomore Stephanie Seiner has her eyes set on the finish line. Cross-Country track attracted much interest during the Fall.

Senior Rachel Brown grits her teeth as Erica Burns goes up for the goal. Their team had a great season!

Sophomore James Brown is on the defense. He and many other 'young' 'Dogs saw playing time during the season.

Whether the Bulldogs brought home a victory or returned with a loss, they always had the support of their fans. These athletes put forth their best effort and worked with their teammates every time to try to win.

Each sport had athletes who showed tremendous improvement as a result of dedication and determination. Each team had to practice frequently in order to be successful.

All sports including football, basketball, volleyball, swimming, cheerleading, and cross-country track excelled this year. None of these successes would have been possible without the support from the Bulldog fans.

Senior Sunny Russ leaps into the air to spike the ball. Teammates, Tanya Houser and Ann Fulgham, were ready to lend their assistance.

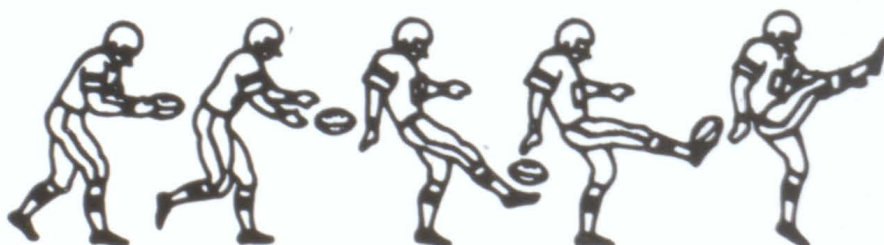

Quarterback Andy Reid turns on the speed to score a touchdown to defeat Coosa Central. Andy had a fantastic year as he led the 'Dogs to many victories.

After an amazing season last year, the Bulldogs returned with twelve dedicated seniors. With Keith Collins, Daryl Spears, and D. J. Horton leading the team they had a sure shot at the State Playoffs. Another great aspect of this year was Shane Dennis' winning All-Shelby County honors for his dazzling defense. Also contributing this year were Tim Durham, Milan Chappell, Paul Jones, and Tim Alexander who was selected for Honorable Mention All-Shelby County. Montevallo started the year by winning their first four out of five games. This included victories over Calera, Leeds, Coosa Central, and long-time rival, the Bibb County Choctaws. The Bulldogs made it to the State Playoffs, but lost in the first round. The 'goal line stand' against Leeds, beating Bibb County, and making it all the way to the State Playoffs etched memories in stone for players and fans alike.

Small Rocks...Secure A Great Future

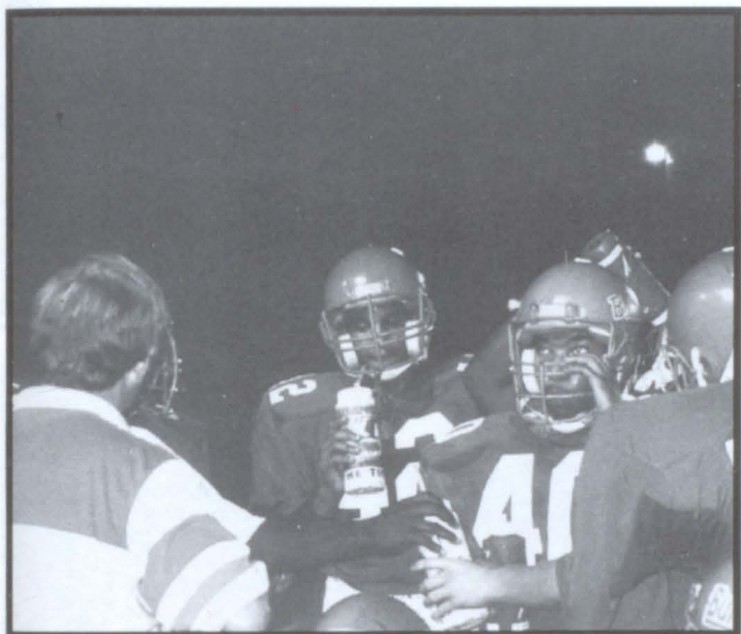

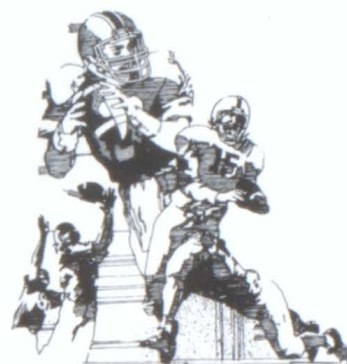

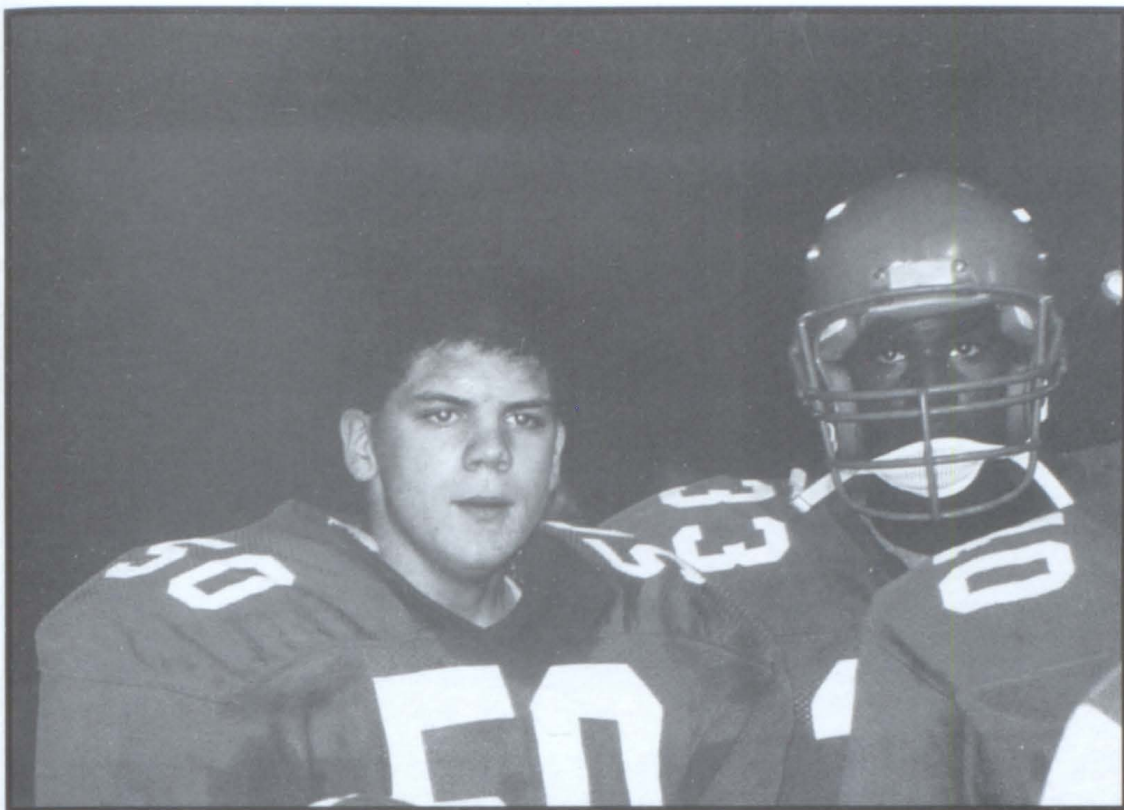

Junior Varsity football provided the groundwork for building successful future stars. Seventh, eighth and ninth graders made up this outstanding team. Freshmen team members provided leadership to their underclassmen. Coaches Horton and Livingston demanded the best of their young charges and the young 'Dogs responded! The team worked hard and challenged each other to do their very best. Their enthusiasm helped them to defeat Thompson in their stadium. Many of these athletes continued to 'workout' in the off season in hopes of securing a spot on the varsity squad.

Under the leadership of four returning seniors the volleyball team kicked off another exciting season. The Lady Bulldogs were coached by Nan Franks. With an 18-16 record they had big wins over Shades Mt. Christian, Coosa Central, and Ramsey. "Everybody worked hard together as a team," said senior Sunny Russ. Out of eleven players, two were chosen for All-county and All-Area Teams. These same two players, Tanya Houser and Erica Burns are seniors and, will be leaving this year. "I really enjoyed playing volleyball the past few years and I would like to wish the next year's team the best of luck," said senior Tanya Houser. Other awards were given out at the fall banquet. They included Most Improved -Stephanie Edwards, Most Team Spirit-Katrina Staffney and Team Captain- Tanya Houser.

VOLLEY BALL

The Varsity cheerleaders of 1994-1995 worked tremendously hard. They won all Blue and Gold ribbons for cheers, chants, sidelines and dance at summer camp. The squad earned an overall superior trophy which allowed them to dance in the Citrus Bowl. The girls worked each weekend to raise enough money to attend the big event. "It was a very exciting time," said junior Valinda Davis, "We had a blast!!!"

Senior Kelli Fountain and Junior Julie Anderson attended the Macy's Day parade in New York with 3,000 other girls from Universal Cheerleading Association. They saw a Broadway show and visited many other attractions in New York City.

Step Up To Victory

This year was a successful year for the B-Team squad. Led by head cheerleader, Nikkole Conwell, the girls won many awards at UCA summer camp. Awards included: Blue and Gold superior ribbons, a spirit stick every night, and a trophy for overall superior cheers and sidelines. Sponsored by Valerie Vaughn, the cheerleaders performed at all B-Team football and basketball games. They also cheered at a many girls' volleyball and basketball games.

The girls worked very hard, made sacrifices, and put much time into the year. All of this, plus much more gave the B-Team squad one of the best years ever!

Cheer

The Junior Varsity squad was a new addition to the cheerleading tradition. The squad was sponsored by Melinda Curtis. "The first year benefitted both the J.V. football and basketball teams" said Mrs. Curtis. The squad received Most Improved Squad at Universal Cheerleading Association camp held at the University of Montevallo. They performed well and had a great time doing it. "Erin Davison's leadership and determination kept the group going" added Mrs. Curtis. In addition to other awards they placed second and third in chant and dance competitions.

Julie Scarborough loves cheering for the young bulldogs at football games. The J-V squad added a new dimension to the cheerleading program.

Varsity Basketball Players: Marlon Lamar, Lendale Young, Shay Lacey, Robert Murphy, Cedric Brown, James Brown, Keith Collins, Milan Chappell, Darrell Moore and Coach Bobby Pierson.

Darrell Moore scrambles for two points. He provided senior leadership for the team.

Undrea Lilly goes in for a layup. He averaged twenty-seven points a game and received attention from around the state!

The basketball season was amazing and exciting to witness. With Undrae Lilly, Keith Collins, and Darrell Moore leading the team, they were sure to have a successful season. Undrae Lilly scored 674 points in the regular season, this pushed him past the 1000 point mark! The bulldogs won the county tournament with a sweeping victory over Calera. Under the leadership of Bobby Pierson, the bulldogs were ranked in the top ten in the state throughout the year. The team finished the regular season with a 19-6 record. They won the sectional tournament and moved to Bay Minette to compete in the Southwest Regional Tournament. Their ranking at that time was number six in the state. In their 78-66 win over Thomasville, the 'Dogs hit a tournament high sixty-two point seven percent of their shots! They suffered a painful loss to Sumter County to end the season. The bulldogs had a tremendous amount of talent and received a great deal of crowd support, that is what led them to remain one of the best in Alabama!

The 'Dogs get the crowd pumped up before the big Calera game. They defeated their arch rival in style!

Junior point guard Ann Fulgham dribbles in for an easy layup, TWO POINTS!

The Lady Bulldogs began to climb the ladder of success with four returning starters. "This year we hoped to improve our 21-9 record from last year and attend the Final Four in Birmingham," said Coach Johnye Horton. That was not the only goal they set. The Lady 'Dogs earned a first place finish in the Coosa Classic, a second place finish in the Shades Valley Invitational, and a second place finish in the County Tournament. "I like winning and working as a team the best, practicing and losing are the worst part, but winning sure does make up for it," said Freshman LaNisha Cartwell.

After ending the regular season with a 22-5 record, the Ladies earning top seed and hosted and won the Sectional Tournament. They lost to the top seed in regionals held in Bay Minette.

Slammin' and Jammin'

The younger players on the basketball teams were really jumpin' this year. "There are many talented and hard working players," said J.V. girls coach, Dot Bishop. The girls finished with a season of 8-4. Eighth grader Erin Houser was point guard. The B-Team Boys were coached by Mike Livingston. Coach Livingston said, "The B-Team's purpose is to get the boys prepared for Varsity." They participated in the Shelby County B-Team Tournament in February. The leading point scorer was Cory Salter, who almost always scored in the double figures. The B-Team had a challenging year. The Junior Varsity boys' basketball team was coached by Charles Averhart. The team participated in the Shelby County Junior Varsity Boys' Tournament. In this tournament they had a victory over Chelsea, and were defeated by Thompson in overtime. The leading point scorer was eighth grader, Steven Durham. The boys finished with a season of 11-6. All in all, the Bulldogs had a fun and successful season.

On Your Mark

The Swim Team was much more demanding and was stronger this year. The Swim team had ten members, with two new swimmers. Wally Blanton coached the team for the first time. Practice was held for two hours Monday through Thursday. Swimmers competed in the state meet.

Coach Mike Livingston worked with the Cross-Country track team during his first year at MHS. The team jogged at the college in the afternoons after football practice. At the Briarwood Christian meet on October 13th they finished third out of eight teams. Runners finished third and fourth at the Shelby County meet. Coach Livingston praised seniors Dan Adams and James Deese, sophomore Sara Simone, and freshman Jac Brown for their efforts. At the state meet sophomore Chris Adams led the boy's cross country team to ninth place. This was the team's best finish ever! The team produced many strong runners this year, and insured the strengths needed to succeed each year.

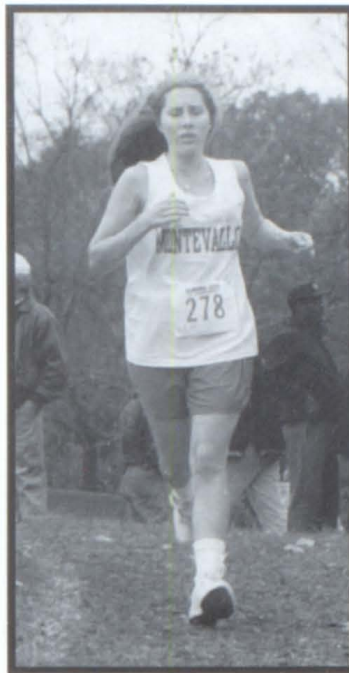

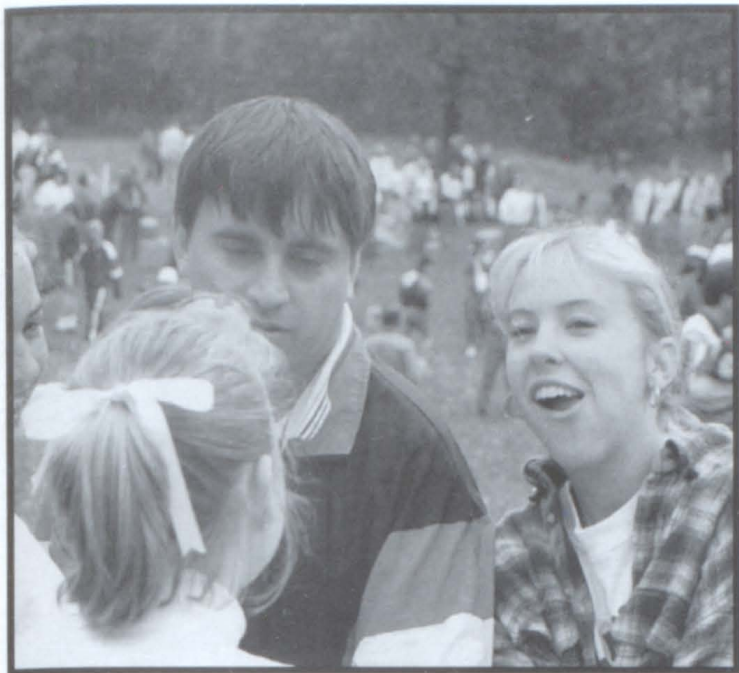

Misty McClain pushes herself to win the Fifty Free race. This was her first year on the swim team.

Many things take up the time of the students at Montevallo High School, but none more so than the organizations that they are members of. Clubs such as the Scholar's Bowl, Math Team, and Student Council take up much of the free time of participants. This required much preparation and after school practice. Other clubs such as the Key Club and the Peer Helpers helped out with problems that students may have faced at school and they help with community needs. The diverse nature of organizations allowed those who were interested to carve a niche of their own.

Notes of Perfection

"The Pell City competition was the highlight of our year!"
— Jim Weese

The Marching Troubadors earned all superior ratings at the Pell City competition.

Kevin Gardner and James Deese receive applause from the stands as they play a duet. These seniors have led the way to success for the band.

Mark Schaefer plays his "quads" and concentrates doing his very best!

Director Jim Weese, Emily Sullivan, and Tara Womac show off the trophies earned at competition.

Matthew Webb taps the final beat in "Big Bahama Mama." The show was enjoyed by all!

Drum major Tara Womac leads the band through various movements during the performance.

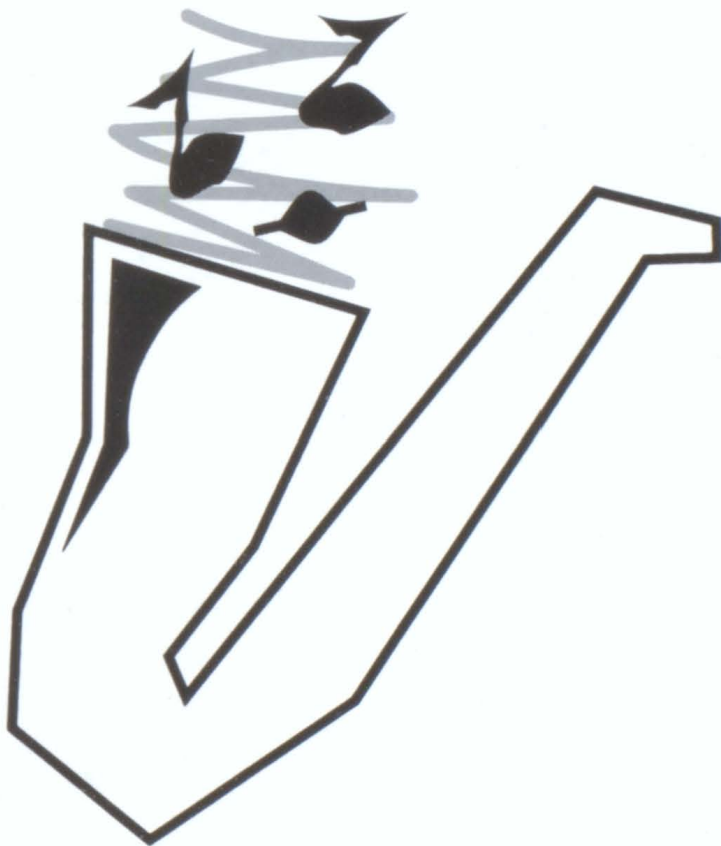

For over twenty years the Marching Troubadours have had a reputation of being an excellent band and this year was no exception. In August members attended band camp every day to prepare for the new show. They also practiced after school to perfect each and every step. Performing "Excalibur", "Big Bahama Mama", "Sing, Sing, Sing", and a "Tribute to Henry Mancini" they received superior ratings and a standing ovation at the Pell City Marching Contest. No doubt about it, they definitely knew how to "rock" a crowd!

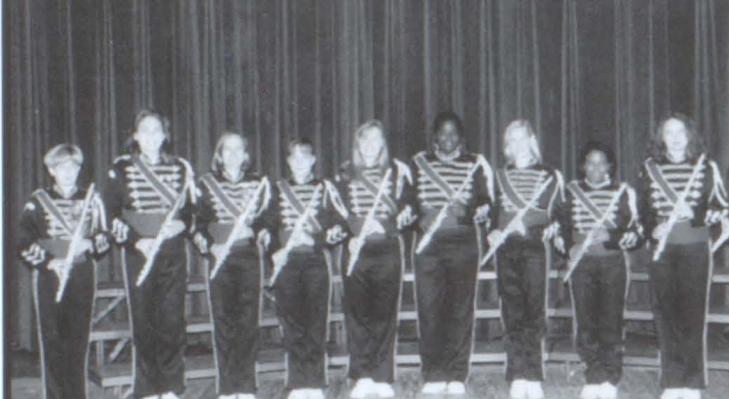

Terri Wood and Hannah Scott wait their turn to blast away at a pep rally. The band pleases the crowd with their rendition of the 'fight song'.

"Nose in the cape" has new meaning for Tiffany Seales and Bethany Evans!

Practice Makes Perfect

Montevallo High School began a new cycle of music after the close of marching season. During the year, the Symphonic Band performed at the Christmas and Spring Concerts. They competed in the District Contest and advanced to state competition. In April the band traveled to Washington D.C. to perform in the All-American Music Festival.

The band excelled under the disciplined direction of Jim Weese. He believed in extensive practice and offered 'tech' classes during the day as well as sectional practices after school. "The Symphonic band members must have dedication and the ambition to achieve and excell in individual goals" said the director.

Angela Johnson looks over her music before the school Christmas Concert. The performance was enjoyed by the entire student body.

The Symphonic band attended the All-American Music Festival in Washington, D.C. in April. They were crowd pleasers!

TWIRLING TO THE TOP

Majorettes, Lisa Register, Kristie Adams, Rachel Bearden, Tracy Rogers, Sarah Pawlik, and Emily Sullivan (Head).

Senior Emily Sullivan stands tall as she performs. She was instrumental to the great success of the majorettes.

Kristie Adams beams at the audience while twirling to the music. She did well in her first year as majorette.

Sarah Pawlik marches in step with the rest of the band. She really enjoyed pleasing the crowds during the season.

Tracy Rogers poses after her first performance. The majorettes were always show stealers!

The Majorettes were definitely “twirling to the top” level of performance! They had new uniforms, as well as new twirlers. To raise money, they helped the band at the Baron’s baseball games. The majorettes were excited this year about the pink panther scene. “I believe this added to the entire majorette production,” said sophomore Rachel Bearden.

Twirling may have looked easy from the stands but a closer look revealed tremendous amounts of dedication and hard work. They started practicing in the middle of the summer and continued until the season was over. The rookies enjoyed their first season and looked forward to building the reputation of majorettes for the future.

Lisa Register keeps the beat of the music while thinking of the next steps in her routine.

Daphne Duren glows at the reaction of the crowd. The year was filled with many “crowd pleasing” performances!

Rachel Bearden prepares for her next move. She was excited about entertaining at the pep rally.

A Helping Hand

An organization of helping the school and the community is what the Student Council represented. Throughout the year, the Student Council performed a variety of service projects to offer a helping hand and to encourage schoolwide participation. The Student Council's two biggest problems were the Big Brother and Big Sister program to enlist seniors as mentors and friends for new freshmen and the Annual Blood Drive held in the spring of the year to boost the area blood supply. The blood drive is an activity that really helps the community out. There is always a demand for people to give blood for those in need.

A Friend in Need is a Friend IN DEED

The Peer Helpers demonstrated their friendliness throughout the year. The group attended orientation at Camp Winnataska as part of training. They received T-shirts, schedules, group numbers, and cabin names upon arrival. Then they were given a welcoming speech to make everyone feel at home, especially the rookies who had so much to learn. All participants looked forward to the ropes course where they learned to trust one another, and to make decisions as a team. The rest of the trip was based learning skills to help them become peer helpers. All the students returned with positive attitudes and a sincere desire to be of service. Another example of their work was during drug awareness week.

The Peer Helpers decorated the front of the school with red ribbons and a banner entitled "Drug Free Way To Be," and encouraged student participation in wearing the ribbons.

"I think the characteristic of being a good Peer Helper requires being patient, understanding, confident, and most of all a friend," said sponsor Barbara Henderson. All the students involved proved to everyone that they were "true" Peer Helpers.

Dawn Fochtman and Stacie Morgan use techniques learned from camp to design their Student Life layout.

Rookie, Anna Blackmon has the look of total frustration that comes with dealines !

Advisor Jan Rogers and Editor Kelli Fountain decide on subjects for staff assignments.

Camara Frye is ready to call it quits! She had just finished editing numerous layouts and copy.

Sales manager Earick Simmons works on a layout. He preferred selling ads to layout preparation.

Ginger Robbins spent her senior year as a 'rookie' on staff. She learned fast and was a great addition.

Latoya Young listens as an instructor representing Taylor Publishing Company walks her through the steps to a good layout. This was only one of many things students learned at the yearbook camp held at the University of Alabama last summer.

Our staff began work on the 1995 Montala in the summer at camp. We all learned a new computer layout program, improved our skills in layout design and in copywriting. We worked TOGETHER to make it a book that we can be proud of. I appreciate all the work of my staff and I am especially thankful for great editors!

-Jan Rogers

The 1995 Montala staff achieved many goals this year. It was the first year ever that the yearbook was produced entirely by computer and the first year to use the program PageVision.

The first steps to a complete page began with a rough draft which include layout design, photos and graphics. Pictures are chosen to represent various organization activities and sporting events and copy was written to tell a story about the photographs. This work was edited by a layout editor, a copy editor and then the editor. After everything had been entered into TypeVision and PageVision computer programs it was sent to the adviser for a final edit and shipment preparation. This was to ensure that there were minimal errors. All work was shipped to Taylor Publishing in Dallas, Texas for the final touches. The final deadline for shipping was February 20, 1995.

The staff was rewarded for their accomplishments by having the 1994 Montala placed on display at the National Association of High School Administrators and Principals.

For forty-seven years the Spotlight has brought the latest updates to our school and town every other week. The staff consisted of a mixture of Freshmen thru Seniors and the sponsor Larry Haynes. The paper had Tri-Editors, they were E. Hamer, E. Imhoff, and K. Gardner. The Journalism students were divided into two classes. The Journalism I class learned how to write articles, so that next year in Journalism II they would have good writing skills. They contributed a lot to the paper. The staff worked together and was very dedicated. Their hard work paid off in many ways. They received the All-State Alabama Award, and first class National Scholastic Press Association award every year. The Spotlight staff traveled with the Mass Comm students to a National Press Association meeting in April. The paper continues its tradition of excellence every year. "I can't pick one important person, it's a team effort to build such a good paper," said sponsor Larry Haynes.

SCENE ONE

The drama club received rave reviews from faculty and peers after their performance of "Rumpelstiltskin Is My Name," the winter production. There were many hours put into the play which all paid off when they made their first performance for the Elementary School.

The play was a hit with the kids, they really enjoyed it. The main characters consisted of five seniors and two juniors. Student director was Gretchen Seelbach, set designer, Camara Frye, publicity manager Maggie Plott, lighting Renee Tingle, sound Chrisa Steib, and properties Cori Burnett.

December 10, 1994 was the first public performance. The response from the audience guaranteed the huge success would add to the drama club's history of excellence.

"I think I am too old to do this, but I do love these kids," said Mrs. Helen Derryberry.

The King (Joseph Pizzatola) addresses the townspeople at the royal christening.

TAKE TWO

In the Royal Throne Room, Father (John Simmer) and Mother (Jennie Ford) urge Sissy (Rebecca Dutton) to leave before the King returns.

Missy (Stacie Morgan) tries to figure out how she is going to spin straw into gold.

The Captain (Tyson Tryon) tells Father of the death penalty he will face if his daughter cannot spin straw into gold!

In Tune With the TEAM

The Montevallo Choral program continued to build during the school year. Their first performance was at the Christmas concert. Among the songs they performed were "Peace on Earth", and "Our Gift For You." The chior also attended America Sings in Orlando, Florida in April. Many members were in the freshman class and were expected to contribute to the program over a four year period. The group was under the direction of Martha Leigh Butz. This was her first year at Montevallo. "We have been working very hard, and the kids have an excellent sound and I hope we have a bigger group next year." said Ms. Butz.

A group of freshman singers look over their music before the Christmas performance for the student body.

Ms. Butz directs the audience to sing along as the band plays.

Renee Tingle and Roxanne Glass enjoy a laugh as they participate in a 'mock' competition.

Scholars' Bowl members: John Simmer, Renee Tingle, Sara Daum, Erin Ryerson, Earick Simmons, Loren McAnally. Back: Mark Schaefer, Ethan Imhoff, Dan Adams, Sarah Pawlik, Roxanne Glass, and Jeff Harper.

Math Team: Lendale Young, Renee Tingle, Beth McAnally, Erin Ryerson. Back: Andrea Wynn, Dan Adams, Sarah Pawlik, and Jeff Harper.

Both the Scholars' Bowl and Math teams competed in local and regional challenges. The Scholars' Bowl team participated in the Knowledge Master's computer tournament in November. The District Tournament was held in February at The University of Alabama in Birmingham. The County Tournament was also held February twenty-eighth in Columbiana. They did very well in that competition. The team was coached by Freda Williams and Bill Hunt.

The Algebra II and Trigonometry teams were led by sponsor, Doug Morris. At the Vestavia Tournament, sophomore Renee Tingle placed highest in the contest.

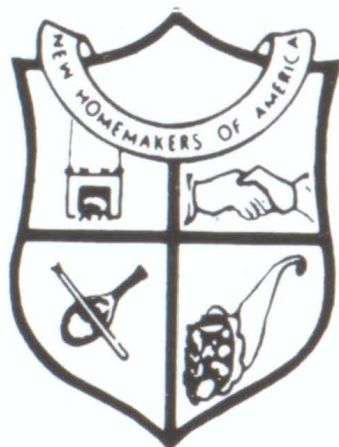

Building the Future

The Future Homemakers of America helped individuals in many different ways, such as visitation of nursing homes, collection of food for the homeless, and preparation of "goodies" for teacher and staff. Director Ellen Hankins provided many worthwhile activities to help prepare young people for adult responsibilities. "I have learned a lot from this experience and hope it will help me in the future," said Angela During.

Monique Lilly and Valarie Burns are excited about plans for a service project.

Mrs. Hankins shares ideas for a new project with Adrian Jackson, Sirmone Brown and Jaclyn Brown.

Officers: Kelli Fountain (Sec), Sara Daum (Pres), Elizabeth Hamer (Historian), Ginger Robbins (V-Pres), and James Deese (Treas).

President, Sara Daum pays close attention to Mrs. Daum as she gives her some instructions about college applications. Sara was instrumental to the success of this year's projects.

- LEADERSHIP
- SCHOLARSHIP
- CHARACTER
- SERVICE

In National Honor Society, four characteristics are emphasized: leadership, scholarship, character, and service. Students are considered for the society in their junior year. The process begins by choosing students who have an overall eighty-five average or higher. Then a faculty committee evaluates each candidate on each of the four qualities above. Candidates who are outstanding in all of these areas are "tapped" in the spring. Selection is the easiest part! Once organized into committees, each member worked hard at their assigned duty. Projects included Toys for Tots, Honor Roll recognition, AIDS/HIV awareness for the group and the school, the "Souper Bowl" Food Drive, and Teacher Appreciation Day. Finally, of course, we had a "tapping" ceremony and reception for next year's group. Colleen Colley served as the sponsor for the organization.

"Somehow time was found just to have fun. There were several socials, and the annual field trip. It was a great year for us, and we wish the best of luck to next year's group."

Simmer, B. Fuller, Back Row: T. Burnett, A. Bolden, C. Price, C. Brantley, R. McFadden, T. Tryon, J. Aaron.

The FFA participated in many contests and events on local, county, state, and national levels. They received great results and continued to work even harder to make improvements for the future. "With all of these experiences the students can make wise decisions on the basis of Agribusiness and FFA. The FFA Olympics and FFA fruit sale receive the most student participation." In order to become a successful FFA member, and to develop agricultural, leadership, cooperation, and citizenship skills requires involvement in FFA activities, classwork, shopwork and student projects," said sponsor Tony Berry.

Congratulations to Beau Blake, Ben Aaron, and Christine Simmer for being successful FFA members and receiving first and second places in the Beef Cattle competition at the Shelby County Fair.

FFA member, Beau Blake carefully shears his sheep to perfection. His efforts allowed him to receive an "A" for the six weeks project. This annual event continued to arouse interest in the Agribusiness courses.

The production of a grandfather clock posed a big challenge for members like Jeremy Stutts. This project was a huge success.

Freshmen Eric Scarborough, Morgan Fuller, and Brendan Fuller are helping one another perfect their projects. All of the students received good grades and were allowed to take them home to share with their families.

Personal Touch

Key Club under the direction of sponsor, Diane Tate and chartered by Kiwanas Club International is an active new organization in the school and community. Some service events such as candy sales to pay for new marquee letters, an auction to raise money and alumni notification were held during the school year. The members planned other enrichment activities for the future.

The Mass Communications class is one of the few classes at Montevallo High where students get a "hands on" approach to the world of television. The Mass Comm department produced a weekly news show to keep students informed about events to come and to report on club, and sports events, as well as honors and interviews. The students that were enrolled in this class could someday in the future go on to be film producers or to work in the field of communication. Many planned on applying their new skills to employment in their future. Some used these credentials to add to resumes to improve chances of college acceptance and scholarship.

Sports reporter, Heath Shoemaker looks over his notes in preparation of the days broadcast. He kept the student body informed about sporting events during each sport season.

Fred Hall focuses the camera on the anchors during a weekly taping of "M H S News". Good camera work, production and presentation assured the crew of notable broadcasts.

Beginnings and Endings

Memories. . .friendship. . . the good times. Now- it's time to say

“Good-bye!”

1995 a year . . . ETCHED IN STONE

As with every beginning there must come an ending, and with every ending there comes a new beginning. With the end of one year and the beginning of another, many lessons and memories have passed us by but will always be a part of us. The end of the year is not only a closing, but a new beginning for those going out into society and those who will be entering their high school careers.

Construction was a big part of M.H.S. this year, but even though there was extensive outside changes, the inward friendliness and hospitality that Montevallo is known for never changed.

The theme, "A Year Etched In Stone" not only represented our change due to construction, but it represented a year filled with friendships as well as hardships and many other memorable times.

Montevallo will be saying "good-bye" to this year's senior class, but will be saying "hello" to a new class of freshmen.

As for the seniors, our memories of times at Montevallo High will be etched in our minds forever.

-Camara Frye

The production of the 1995 Montala was enjoyable for us. Our experiences this year as editors was one of our high school goals. It was a very exciting and challenging task. Although the deadlines caused many frustrations, we succeeded in producing an outstanding book. On the first day of school as we encountered many new faces on the annual staff, we knew we had our job cut out for us. Through long hours of hard work, the editors and the annual staff labored to produce the best Montala ever-WE SUCCEEDED!!!

We would like to thank Mrs. Rogers for her help in this project and for all the headaches she endured just so we could make this edition of the Montala very special. The rest of the credit goes to "The Staff", for without their help the annual would not have been produced.

We are grateful for the opportunity to be Editors of the 1995 Montala, and we leave the annual staff of 1996 the challenge of producing the next great edition of the Montala.

The 1995 Montala was distributed and produced by fifteen dedicated staff members. Senior editors were Kelli Fountain, Renee Byrd, and Camara Frye. Advisor Jan Rogers revised and finalized all work before it was sent to Taylor Publishing in Dallas, Texas to be printed. A Macintosh Classic II computer was used with Pagevision, a layout program, and Typevision, a copy program, from Taylor. It is the first time that the yearbook has used both copy and layout computer programs. Signatures of 16 pages each were shipped to Dallas, Texas for production, photocopying and editing. Shipment deadlines were November 1, 1994, December 15, 1994, January 20, 1995, and the final deadline was February 20, 1995.

The Montala was printed on enamel 80 weight paper. Smyth binding was used. The dominant typeset used was Times Roman. It included 128 pages with an eight page spring supplement to be issued in August. The endsheet paper of the book was marble black, and the cover was a lithocote cover of black with a black marble inset. It featured silver foil embossing. The cover inset was computer designed by artist Art Wald of Birmingham, Alabama. Embossed names on the cover cost an extra five dollars. The cost of each book was thirty dollars. Sales exceeded 275 copies for the past two years.

Customer service representative Curtis Wright, and TPC representative Jim Robbins helped the staff throughout the year by answering questions and helping the staff to meet deadlines.

The theme, ETCHED IN STONE, was selected by the staff at a three-day training workshop sponsored by the Alabama Taylor Publishing staff. It was held at the University of Alabama in Tuscaloosa, Alabama.

New techniques and ideas obtained at the workshop are evident in the publication.
